

DIGITAL MEDIEVALIST

An international web-based community for medievalists working with digital media.
Join over 1,500 members worldwide!

Scope

Our community fosters geographical diversity among digital medievalists. The daily page views for our website show a distribution across countries across the globe, albeit with a strong concentration on the medieval European mainland. We attempt to further reduce the skewness of this geographical distribution through presenting at international Digital Humanities conferences.

In 2017, DM joined the European Alliance for Social Sciences and Humanities (EASSH) as a learned society.

Website

DM runs a website where contributors encourage best practice in digital scholarship and resource creation. Through frequent announcements and pointers to external resources, we aim to serve a wide range of disciplinary fields, including digital humanities, medieval studies, cultural heritage, archaeology, literary studies, history, linguistics, and museum and archival studies.

digitalmedievalist.wordpress.com

Journal

Digital Medievalist (DM) runs an open access academic journal. It publishes peer-reviewed original research and scholarship, theoretical articles on digital topics, notes on technological topics, commentary pieces discussing developments in the field, bibliographic and review articles, tutorials, and project reports. The journal also commissions reviews of books and major electronic sites and projects.

<https://journal.digitalmedievalist.org>

Follow

DM runs an electronic mailing list. Members use this list to ask for advice, discuss problems, and share information. The list's collegial atmosphere encourages a variety of conversations.

<dm-l@uleth.ca>

DM also has an active Facebook group and Twitter feed where news and discussion is posted relating to digital medieval issues. Our news feed is regularly updated and attracts a wide audience of medievalists. The Facebook group is still growing and recently reached 1600 members.

facebook.com/groups/49320313760

@digitalmedieval

DHd Conference 2018, Köln

Conference Representatives:

Greta Franzini (UniGöttingen), Franz Fischer (UniKöln) and Mike Kestemont (UniAntwerp)

